

AFFIDAVIT OF JAY F. NICHOLS

1. I am currently employed by Cable & Wireless Inc. as Senior Director of Enhanced Service Sales. As Senior Director of Enhanced Service Sales, I am responsible for the sale of broadcast fax (SureCom) and value-added Internet services (Web Hosting). I have been employed by Cable & Wireless for four years. During the previous 11 years, I held sales positions with Lotus Development Corp. and CompuServe. I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth in this affidavit.

2. Because MCI did not provide enough sales personnel to service all of Cable & Wireless's new Internet customers, the SureCom sales force was assigned the task of contacting many of those customers and servicing their Internet needs.

3. In fact, the approximately 40 sales and sales support personnel provided by MCI nationwide were grossly inadequate to cover the more than 3,000 Internet accounts transferred. As an example, Cable & Wireless received no sales personnel from MCI in Phoenix, Arizona, even though an important Internet customer, American Express, was located there. I later learned from an MCI WorldCom employee that MCI WorldCom had 37 employees dedicated solely to the American Express account.

4. Moreover, with few exceptions, the sales force transferred by MCI was not of high quality. Generally, those employees had limited ability and several had poor attitudes and work habits.

5. The account profiles provided by MCI were of little or no use. In many cases, the customer contacts provided were MCI employees. When Cable & Wireless contacted the MCI employee to request information about the customer, the request was often refused.

6. The customer revenue information provided by MCI was also frequently inaccurate. For example, MCI reported that Microsoft generated revenues of over $400,000 per month when, in reality, those revenues were approximately $90,000 per month.

7. Our lack of information about our acquired customers was compounded by MCI WorldCom's failure to provide us with access to customer databases that had been available to MCI's sales force before Cable & Wireless purchased MCI's Internet business.

8. MCI has provided no contract documentation for a large portion of the customer base, making it impossible for Cable & Wireless to price new services for customers or determine when contracts are scheduled to expire. The contracts that have been provided are often useless because they are missing current addenda or circuit orders. On one occasion, I had to suffer the embarrassment of asking a large customer, Microsoft, to provide me with a copy of their contract in order to provide them with service. MCI had not provided the contract to Cable & Wireless and I had tried for two weeks to obtain it from MCI WorldCom, without success.

9. Cable & Wireless lost business opportunities because MCI failed to maintain the level of service to its Internet customers shortly before the sale of the business to Cable & Wireless. For example, Microsoft told me that they had shifted some of their Internet business to other vendors due to MCI's lack of responsiveness immediately before the sale. The Weather Channel told me that they had received poor support from MCI. I understood that The Weather Channel shifted some of their Internet business to another vendor.

10. MCI WorldCom has either refused or delayed decisions on a high percentage of Cable & Wireless's requests for DS3 circuits to serve our Internet customers. I was informed that MCI WorldCom sales executives sit on the committee that decides whether to approve such requests for capacity. On some occasions, MCI WorldCom has demanded that we identify the customer and contact person in connection with requests for circuits. I believe that such competitively-sensitive information is irrelevant for the purpose of determining whether there is available capacity.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

AFFIDAVIT OF DAVID DIXON

1. I am a Technical Sales Consultant, Level 2, for Cable & Wireless, Inc. recently promoted on February 16, 1999. Between the months of September 15, 1998 and February 15, 1999, I was employed as a Sales Consultant. In that position, I would track, implement, and trouble-shoot customer orders for dedicated Internet access. Prior to joining Cable & Wireless in connection with the sale of MCI's Internet business, I worked at MCI for 1 year as a Project Coordinator and for 2 years in the Memphis terminal installing Frame Relay, TDS, and Internet Private Line circuits. As a Project Coordinator, I supported the sales representatives by tracking, implementing, and trouble-shooting customer orders for voice, data, and Internet services. At MCI, I spent approximately 15 – 20% of my time on Internet orders. I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth in this affidavit.

2. MCI failed to transfer sufficient technical personnel in order to support the Internet business. I was the only Project Coordinator transferred. In my opinion and based on the number of dedicated Internet customers transferred, Cable & Wireless required at least 10 Project Coordinators to service these customers. In my opinion, Cable & Wireless would have required another 10 Project Coordinators to support growth of the Internet business. Project Coordinators are essential to operating the Internet business because they provide the technical support to ensure that customers' orders are fulfilled.

3. MCI did not provide access to certain MCI databases necessary for Project Coordinators ("Service Consultants" at Cable & Wireless) to be able to do their jobs. For example, at the time of the sale of the Internet business, MCI provided Cable & Wireless with less than five RACF IDs. A RACF ID is an MCI ID, which is the only way to access the NETPRO, COMS, and CSM databases. These MCI databases track, implement, and trouble-shoot customers' Internet orders.

4. On March 9, 1999, MCI provided more RACF IDs to Cable & Wireless. The RACF IDs provided by MCI to Cable & Wireless are security-restricted such that they do not permit Cable & Wireless employees to read – much less interact with – any of the information in the databases. In my opinion, Cable & Wireless needs at least five RACF IDs – coded for full access to MCI's databases – in each sales office to be able to run the Internet business – not one or two in the entire country. At MCI, every employee in the sales office had a RACF ID.

5. In addition, MCI has failed to provide access to certain information systems necessary to operate the Internet business. For example, sales representatives can no longer access billing information via computer, and therefore cannot view such information when speaking with customer regarding bills.

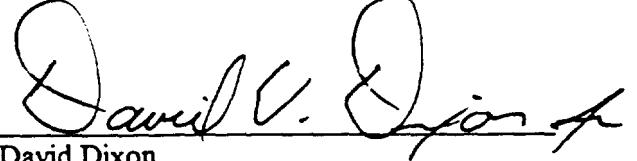

6. MCI dropped numerous orders for installations, disconnects, and upgrades that were due to customers in July, August, and early September 1998. It is my understanding from dealing with customers that MCI never informed the customers that MCI was dropping their orders.

7. Attached to my affidavit as Exhibit A is a chart showing all orders 60+ days past due, as of March 18, 1999. This chart reflects the fact that MCI dropped many customer orders within two to three months of the sale of the Internet business to Cable & Wireless.

8. Two columns in this chart reveal that MCI dropped orders, the "Due Dt" column and the "599 Dt" column. The "Due Dt" is the date on which the customer expects the order to be completed. The "599 Dt" is the date on which MCI actually completed the order. MCI had not fulfilled orders as of March, 18, 1999 for customers without dates in the "599 Dt" column. This chart indicates that MCI dropped many orders that were contracted for in July, August, and early September. MCI failed to fulfill orders for service and for account information that were due to the customer in July, August, and early September from customers such as Air Touch Cellular, A.G. Simpson, Inc., Basler Electric, Caliber Collision Centers Inc., CTE Antel, ECT, Equitrust Inc., Finish Master, Fleet Credit Card, GWI Rail, Hughes, Hubbard and Reed, Holland Company, IMPSAT-USA, International Paper, Internet Resources, Inc., JAMCO, Inc., Lucent Technologies, Mediastream, Milbar Company, OfficeMax, Sally Foster, SMA, Sequoyah Literacy Systems, Transaction Networks, Inc., Vermeer Manufacturing, and West & Archambault.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

AFFIDAVIT OF LUCRETIA BROWN

1. I am currently employed by Cable & Wireless Inc. as the Business Manager, Customer Care, at Sacramento Call Center located at 2495 Natomas Park Drive, Sacramento, California, 95833. My responsibilities include managing all new projects, managing training, coordinating implementation of new product service, and facilitating management of key indicator performance. I have been employed by Cable & Wireless in that position since October 12, 1998. Prior to joining Cable & Wireless, I was employed by MCI for approximately seven years.

2. Since Cable & Wireless purchased MCI's Internet business, I was told by Cable & Wireless's billing operations unit that MCI has been providing billing services to Cable & Wireless for the residential internet dial-up service. From September 14, 1998, the date of the sale of the iMCI business to Cable & Wireless, until February 16, 1999, approximately 42,000 customers cancelled their internet service, the vast majority of which cancelled because of billing problems.

3. The billing problems are reflected by the fact that an increased number of customers cancel service on the day after MCI sends out the bills. For example, in January 1999, after MCI sent the bill for October 1998 usage, Cable & Wireless lost over 1300 customers in a single day. By way of comparison, at that time in January, on average, 300 customers were canceling a day.

4. On the first day after MCI has sent out bills following the closing, customers flood the call center with calls because the bills contain numerous errors. For example, on those days, customers calling the call center increase over 400%. The customers are angry and frustrated because the bills contain numerous errors.

5. Customer bills sent out in December, January, and February were sent on one billing cycle. That meant that, during those months, all Cable & Wireless residential customers received their bills over the same three day time period. Such a billing cycle produces a call volume in excess of 20,000 calls per day during that three day period whereas the call center typically receives 2,000 to 5,000 per day. The calls increase because of billing errors.

6. MCI has been and continues to send out the bills two to three months late. For example, bills for September 1998 usage were sent in December 1998, bills for October 1998 usage were sent in January 1999, bills for November 1998 usage were sent in February 1999, and bills for December 1998 usage were sent in March 1999.

7. The errors in billing include billing for accounts that were supposed to be canceled in June and July 1998, duplicate billing, primarily in August and September, billing customers for 800 access at $5.95/hr for what should have been free local access, billing customers on the wrong plan, and credits not being posted. For example, Cable & Wireless requested MCI to post credits for approximately 8800 pre-acquisition credits, totaling over $304,000. To this date, the Call Center continues to receive calls from customers who have not received the adjustments due them. Furthermore, MCI has not provided confirmation that MCI has posted the credits.

8. In connection with the sale of the iMCI business, Cable & Wireless did not receive any system or support from MCI through which the Sacramento Call Center could manage revenue, including any ability to post credit adjustments to customers or view payments made by customers. Such a system is necessary to the call center in order to manage revenue.

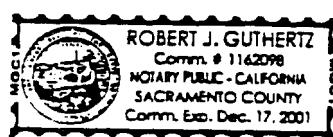

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed this 12th day of March, 1999.
